SUMMARY

I am a hardworking and dedicated undergraduate student at Lovely Professional University, Punjab in India studying computer science and engineering. I would like to get some experience while studying in university and I think I will be able to make it happen at the same time as getting my degree. I have good communication skills and I can work effectively in a team and manage my time correctly. I have no problems if I am just there to assist you in doing the tasks you require, I am very willing to learn and maybe even become skilled in tasks connected to my employment. All of this being done while remaining committed to producing quality work. I think this part-time job will allow me to learn some new skills while also being a contributing and worthwhile member of your staff.
